WINES AND SPIRITS.

On and after the 1st April, 1894, the Prices of our Wines and Spirits will be as follows:—

PORT.

(For Invalids and general Use.)

		Per doz. Case
B	Vintage, superior quality, Red Capsule	$ 4.40
C	Fine Old Vintage, superior quality, Black Seal Capsule.	16.20
D	Very Fine Old Vintage, extra superior, Violet Capsule (Old Bottled)	20.40

Port after removal should be rested for a month before use. Wine required for drinking at once should be ordered to be decanted at the Dispensary before being sent out. These wines are too well known to need comment.

Sample bottles and smaller quantities will be supplied at proportionate wholesale rates.

We only guarantee our Wines and Spirits to be genuine when bought direct from us in the Colony or from our authorised Agents at the Coast Ports.

SHERRY.

		Per doz. Case
B	Superior Pale Dry, dinner wine, Green Seal Capsule	$10.80
C	Manzanilla, Pale Natural Sherry, White Capsule	12.00
C C	Superior Old Dry, Pale Natural Sherry, Red Seal Capsule	12.00
D	Very Superior Old Pale Dry, choice old Wine, White Seal Capsule	14.40
E	Extra Superior Old Pale Dry, very finest quality, Black Seal Capsule (Old Bottled)	20.40

B, C, and C C are excellent dinner wines or for invalids and delicate stomachs. D and E are after dinner wines of a very superior vintage. All are true Xeres wines.

Sample bottles and smaller quantities will be supplied at proportionate wholesale rates.

We only guarantee our Wines and Spirits to be genuine when bought direct from us in the Colony or from our authorised Agents at the Coast Ports.

CLARET.

		Per Case 1 doz. 2 Quarts	Per Case 2 doz. Pints
B	St. Estephe, Red Capsule	$ 6.96	7.56
C	St. Julien, Red Capsule	9.00	9.60
D	La Rose, Red Capsule	12.96	13.92
	Sainte Foy	7.20	7.92
	Cussac	9.60	10.44
	Château d'Anglade	13.20	14.40
	Château Haut Brion Larrivet	18.60	19.20
	Chateau Monton d'Armailhacq	21.00	22.20

Our Clarets, including the lowest priced, are guaranteed to be the genuine product of the juice of the grape, and are not artificially made from raisins and currants, as is generally the case with cheap Wines.

Sample bottles and smaller quantities will be supplied at proportionate wholesale rates.

We only guarantee our Wines and Spirits to be genuine when bought direct from us in the Colony or from our authorised Agents at the Coast Ports.

HOCK.

	Per Case 1 doz. Quarts	Per Case 2 doz. Pints
Niersteim	$12.00	—
Rudesheimer	21.00	—
Hockheimer	24.00	—

BURGUNDY.

Chablis, white wine	15.00	—
Meursault, superior white wine	18.00	—

MADEIRA AND CHAMPAGNE.

Full particulars of the various Brands on application.

BRANDY.

		Per doz. Case
 A	Hennessy's Old Pale, Red Capsule	$14.40
* B	Superior Very Old Cognac, Red Capsule	16.20
 C	Very Old Liqueur Cognac	20.40
D	Hennessy's Finest Very Old Liqueur Cognac, 1872 Vintage, Red Capsule	36.00
E	Finest Very Old Liqueur Cognac, 1862 Vintage	48.00

All our Brandy is guaranteed to be pure Cognac, the difference in price being merely a question of age and vintage.

Sample bottles and smaller quantities will be supplied at proportionate wholesale rates.

We only guarantee our Wines and Spirits to be genuine when bought direct from us in the Colony or from our authorised Agents at the Coast Ports.

WHISKY.

SCOTCH—

		Per doz. Case
A	Thorne's Blend, White Capsule	$10.80
B	Watson's Glenorchy Mellow Blend, Blue Capsule, with Name and Trade Mark	10.80
C	Watson's Abelour-Glenlivet, Red Capsule, with Name and Trade Mark	12.00
D	Watson's H K D Blend of the Finest Scotch Malt Whiskies, Violet Capsule	14.40
E	Watson's Very Old Liqueur Scotch Whisky, Gold Capsule	15.00
	Daniel Crawford's Finest Very Old Scotch Whisky	14.40

Our lowest priced Whisky is of excellent quality and of greater age than most brands in the market. We recommend our customers not to be deterred by the lowness of price from trying them all. For a soda whisky, Thorne's Blend and Watson's Glenorchy are equal to any. Abelour-Glenlivet is a very old Peat Whisky (smoky), that could not be replaced in stock at the price. D and E are too well known to need comment.

IRISH—

		Per doz. Case
A	John Jameson's Old, Green Capsule	$12.00
B	John Jameson's Fine Old, Green Capsule	15.00
C	John Jameson's Very Fine Old, Green Capsule	18.00

All these are very fine and old. C has been stocked in Hongkong in wood for 20 years, there being little sale for Irish Whisky in the Colony.

AMERICAN—

	Per doz. Case
Genuine Bourbon Whisky, Fine Old, Red Capsule, with our Name and Trade Mark	$15.00

Sample bottles and smaller quantities will be supplied at proportionate wholesale rates.

We only guarantee our Wines and Spirits to be genuine when bought direct from us in the Colony or from our authorised Agents at the Coast Ports.

HONGKONG, APRIL 12TH, 1894.

It was hardly to be expected that the settlement arrived at between the Swedish Consul-General and the Chinese Government in reference to the Sungpu Massacre would put a termination to anti-missionary outrages in China. The weakness shown by Mr. Boon, and the anti-foreign spirit manifested throughout the discussion which followed this dastardly outrage, could not fail to encourage the anti-foreign party in the central provinces to fresh manifestations of hatred and ill-will to the missionaries and their converts. This result we predicted at the time, and the prophecy is already in course of fulfilment. A rich aftermath of outrages and difficulties is ripening fast, to re-arouse indignation among the foreign communities in China, though it will no doubt again fail to stir the Foreign Ministers to decided action. At Iling, a place some twelve miles from Yangchow, a Norwegian missionary has been mobbed, and the mission premises destroyed. The native officials were warned of the intended demonstration and promised to send soldiers to protect the mission, but the "braves" did not put in an appearance until the riot was over, and there is every reason to believe that the promised protection was deferred purposely. In Shantung, too, there have been anti-missionary demonstrations, and one against the Roman Catholics threatens to prove serious. It is urged by the Chinese that the missionaries have shown an aggressive spirit, and have acted without tact; but these statements must be taken with a large grain of salt, we think. The missionaries have of late learned by very painful experience the absolute necessity of avoiding any steps calculated to arouse native prejudices or conduct likely to give the faintest excuse for an exhibition of hostile feeling, and it is not likely they will knowingly provoke an outbreak of the ill-will so ready to flare up on the slightest pretext. The natives, on the other hand, are exceedingly anxious to find some justification for the crusade against the unwelcome foreign intruders which commenced with the series of outrages in the Yangtsze Valley culminating in the murders at Wusueh. The crusade then inaugurated has never really ceased; though the outbreaks are intermittent the movement has gone on steadily by the propagation of libels on the Christian religion, its foreign teachers, and native adherents.

It may perhaps be doubted whether the missionaries are wise in persevering in their efforts to propagate Christianity in the interior of China until the Treaty Powers succeed in opening up the Empire to general trade and residence. But they undoubtedly possess the privilege of residence in the interior through a clause of the French Treaty, and while they choose to take advantage of it they must be protected from native violence. Some of the missionaries may perhaps covet the crown of martyrdom, but the majority, we take it, are content to quietly labour at their calling avoiding needless risks and abstaining from any action tending to excite the inflammable populace or to furnish a handle to their special foes, the literati and officials. But that newly arrived missionaries do not always show discretion is well known, and a very recent proof of this is furnished by a correspondent of a Shanghai contemporary who states that a body of twelve Protestant missionaries contemplate occupation of the field in Shantung where there is already active opposition to the Roman Catholic missions in progress. This projected new invasion is eminently calculated to fan the anti-foreign flame in that province, and it is to be hoped that it will not be persevered in. There should be no rivalry between the Christian missions in China if it can be avoided, and more especially so in presence of the crusade against all of them conducted by the professors of Confucianism. Not that there is much chance of the missionaries conciliating either the officials or the populace; or of their being able, by unity of conduct and aim, to render their doctrines more acceptable to the arrogant literati. The latter will only be satisfied by the complete and final expulsion of the teachers of what they stigmatise as the "Devil's Religion," of which they regard the "Hog" as the type and symbol. The Imperial Government may profess a desire to protect the missionaries, and may issue edicts ordering the people to abstain from interference with the Christians, but unfortunately the provincial officials are a law unto themselves in this matter, and their interpretation of the mandates of Peking is to do nothing and see nothing when an anti-foreign demonstration is in course of preparation. The propaganda of fire and murder taught by the notorious CHOU HAN and his confreres in Hunan has virtually received sanction from the Government by their failure to fittingly punish the authors of the inflammatory literature issued from the Hunan presses. While the Foreign Ministers continue to show a want of unity in their policy and a readiness to condone outrages for mere monetary indemnification for actual losses suffered, there will be no improvement in the treatment of missionaries and their flocks; but, on the contrary, emboldened by impunity, the persecutions to which Christians are subjected will wax more vigorous and unrelenting, guided as it is by a determination on the part of the literary classes to eventually drive the missionaries out of the country and extirpate their religion. In this enterprise, however, they will not succeed, inasmuch as they will one day venture too far and by some frightful massacre at last goad the Western Powers to decisive action. It seems a pity that any new provocation should be necessary to work Western indignation up to the proper pitch, when prevention is so much better than cure.

The M. M. steamer Natal, with the outward French mail, left Singapore at 9 a.m. yesterday.

It is rumoured, says the Siam Free Press, that another Minister has been selected to succeed Captain Jones, V.C., as Minister-Resident to the Court of Siam.

Five Japanese females were charged yesterday at the Magistracy with obtaining a surreptitious passage to Hongkong on the German steamer Pamphia, but Mr. Wodehouse dismissed the case.

The scheme for the improvement of Macao harbour is assuming practical shape. We hear on good authority that the Government of that colony has decided to borrow $100,000 in Hongkong to meet the cost of the work.

It is currently reported at Bangkok, we learn from the Siam Observer, that the British barque Nicoya (Capt. Norris) has been wrecked on Lighthouse Reef, whilst on a voyage from Saigon to Nouman with a cargo of rice. No lives were lost. The Nicoya, it will be remembered, made several trips between Bangkok and Hongkong some two years ago.

We understand that the tennis match (double) between Canton and Hongkong which was postponed last week owing to Mr. Bent's being unable to come down from Canton, will take place on the Cricket ground to-day commencing at 3 p.m. Canton will be represented by Messrs. Jas. Wallace and Bent and Hongkong by Dr. Mouden, R.N., and Mr. C. Platt.

We hear that the Hon. G. T. M. O'Brien has been ordered a change of climate by his medical advisers and is going home on short leave. His departure will take place within the next few weeks, and pending the return of Sir William Robinson from Japan the Government will be administered by General Barker. The Hon. J. H. Stewart Lockhart will be Acting Colonial Secretary.

The Dacieros sugar case, as it is generally known, in which the compradore of the vessel claims from numerous Chinese defendants the sum of $5,000 for damages alleged to have been received through false imprisonment and malicious prosecution, occupied the attention of the Court, sitting in Original Jurisdiction with a common jury, all yesterday and was adjourned until this morning.

A tale of a pig was told at the Magistracy yesterday. A worthy butcher living in Sai Ying Pun a day or two ago was taking a pig to the slaughter house and when about half way, after the usual manner of Chinamen, he deposited it at the side of the road and returned for another "porker." When he got back he observed another man in the act of carrying away his pig, presumably not to the slaughter house. The thief was neatly caught and was sentenced by Mr. Wodehouse to six months' imprisonment with hard labour.

A meeting of the Sanitary Board will be held this afternoon. The following is the agenda:—

Mortality returns for weeks ended the 31st March and 7th April, 1894.

Colonial Veterinary Surgeon's further reports concerning cases of cattle disease.

The Colonial Veterinary Surgeon's proposal concerning the watchmen at the slaughter house.

Applications for licences and renewal of licences to keep cattle and swine.

Report by the Government Analyst upon the results of the analysis of water from Pyram and Pokfulam.

Application for permission to erect water-closets upon Inland Lot No. 59.

The absconding clerk of the Ordnance Department, Jose Sanchez del Aguilar, who recently left suddenly for Shanghai after unsuccessfully endeavouring to pass a forged cheque for $30 at the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, appeared again before Mr. H. E. Wodehouse at the Police Court yesterday. Capt. A. S. Palmer identified the cheque as belonging to his own private cheque book, of which evidently the defendant had obtained possession. Defendant admitted the offence and asked to be dealt with summarily, pleading his youth as a extenuating circumstance. His Worship sentenced him to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour.

A beachcomber named Harris, holding also the curious alias of Li Fo, was before Mr. H. E. Wodehouse yesterday charged with obtaining some goods by false pretences from a Chinese shopkeeper. It appears that a week or so ago he went into the store and represented himself as the steward on an American man-of-war which had just arrived and which he said was in need of a lot of goods which the complainant could supply. A substantial order having been given the defendant incidentally asked for a few handkerchiefs, socks, and other items, which were given to him on the strength of his liberal patronage. It subsequently transpired that the defendant was no more connected with the man-of-war than with the man in the moon. He has just commenced a term of nine months' imprisonment with hard labour.

To the ordinary individual few documents can be more puzzling than a bill of lading, with its numerous exceptions. The shipowner is a firm believer in "contracting out" and when he accepts cargo is inclined to contract himself out of every possible obligation save that of collecting the freight. Just how far he can go in this direction is one of the knotty points of the law, for with all the ingenuity expended in the drafting of bills of lading the courts still hold that some measure of responsibility attaches to the carrier. A very useful text book on the subject, entitled "Bill of Lading Exceptions," has just been compiled by Mr. H. E. Pollock, barrister-at-law, which will be found useful as a compendium of the multitudinous rulings of the courts. It has been printed at the Daily Press Office and is obtainable from Kelly and Walsh, Limited.

Mr. Woodward, a Police Magistrate at Singapore, has been delivering himself on the subject of perjury in that colony. He had been summoned as a witness in a case in which this offence was charged, but he declined to attend without an order from the Supreme Court. In addressing the Chief Justice he said:—In his own opinion, private prosecutions for perjury—especially among Tamils—were always undertaken from some ulterior motive—from animosity or private spite. He thought in such cases that magistrates should not give evidence either on one side or the other. He had no objection to give evidence in the present case particularly, but he was speaking generally. There was such a lot of perjury going on in the police court in Singapore that it was perfectly astounding the amount of false cases brought before a magistrate in a police court. The ideas of the people in this country about perjury were quite different to the English notions of bringing false evidence in a police court. There seemed to exist an idea here that to bring a false case was one way of paying off an old score. The man who did such a thing was not considered a great offender in the eyes of his own countrymen, though he was a great offender in the eyes of the law. He (Mr. Woodward) supposed that ninety per cent. who gave evidence in the police court never told the whole truth, and he thought fifty or sixty per cent. committed gross perjury. It was only by studying the character, habits, and modes of thought of the people that a magistrate could hope to arrive at a proper conclusion in each case. Private prosecutions for perjury if they were encouraged gave rise to endless litigation, which did not, he thought, serve good objects.—The Chief Justice said he had listened with much interest to what Mr. Woodward had said, but he made the order asked for.

THE TRAGEDY IN THE HONGKONG HOTEL.

At the Magistracy yesterday afternoon the hearing was resumed of the charge against Choo Sing Chi and Chui Tat Chu, bar boys at the Hongkong Hotel, of causing the death of Arthur William Jinks, a steward on the troopship Tamar, at the bar of the hotel on the 1st inst.

Mr. G. C. C. Mules watched the case on behalf of the Naval authorities, and Mr. H. L. Dennys defended.

Reginald Tucker, sworn, said—I am manager of the Hongkong Hotel. Both of the defendants were in the employ of the hotel at the time of their arrest. The first defendant is junior bar boy and the second defendant head bar boy in that particular department from 5 o'clock until midnight. I remember the night of the 1st inst. We had had a very busy day and at about a quarter to eight I looked in to the lower bar. I then went up to dinner and at a quarter past eight the office boy came up to me and said that there was fighting going on in the lower bar. I immediately went down and entered the bar by the private entrance, and owing to what I was told I went on to the Praya and thence into the bar by the Praya door. The first man I saw was Mr. Sequeira, the clerk, speaking to two men who were facing me—one was Mr. Gilchrist and the other I do not know personally, although I believe he is connected with the P. and O. Company. I spoke to them and they directed my attention to the east end of the bar, where I saw a man lying down on the floor. I noticed that the fender, a wooden one, had been pulled out about nine inches. The man's head was close to it. The two defendants and the cash boy were behind the bar. There were a large number of Europeans in the place. The place of wood produced in Court is one of two which are used for tilting casks of beer in the bar. While I was in the bar I saw the Indian watchman standing outside and I gave him orders to call the policeman on Pedder's Wharf, with whom he returned soon afterwards. A gentleman who was present said that he was a medical student and acting on his advise I sent to the Government Civil Hospital for an ambulance. I was present when the first defendant, who was pointed out by two Europeans, was arrested. Some of the boys said that the wrong boy was charged, and the Indian watchman said so also. They said that the cash boy, who was present when accused, had struck the deceased. He denied it. I do not know where the cash boy is now. I have not seen him since. He was arrested that evening, or at any rate was taken to the Police Station with the other boy.

Inspector Baker—Only the first defendant was arrested that evening.

Mr. Dennys—There is not much difference. He went up to the Station with the police.

Witness, continuing, said—The stick was found by a police constable who came down later on to look round.

Cross-examined—I do not know of any reason why the police did not arrest the cash boy. The second defendant has been in the Hotel for 8 years and bears a very good character. The European whom I saw on the floor on entering seemed to have fallen on the back of his head, striking the tiled floor.

Shui Kam, office boy, said that he called Mr. Tucker about 6 o'clock on the 1st inst. because there was a fight going on in the bar. He was told of the fight by a boy who came in to the office with a piece of wood in his sleeve. He did not know where this boy went.

E. P. Sequeira, clerk, who was called to the scene of the affair immediately after the occurrence, also gave evidence. He said—At 8 p.m. on the night of 1st April I was walking in the hall of the Hotel, between the counter and Pedder's Street. I heard people talking excitedly outside the Pedder's Street entrance. I rushed out to see what was the matter. I found an Indian watchman and a European. The European, pointing inside, asked, "Where has that boy gone?" I turned back and went as far as the corridor. I saw nobody there. Then I went down to the lower bar by the Praya entrance. As I entered the bar I saw two Europeans and recognised one of them as the European who had spoken to me in Pedder's Street. There was another European standing in the bar inside the counter there were two or three China boys. The defendants and the cash boy were inside the counter. I saw a man lying on the floor, on his back. His head was 12 or 18 inches from the fender. The police were sent for and I went back to the office. No one passed me in the hall of the Hotel prior to my hearing the noise in Pedder's Street. I had seen Ah Kam in his chair at the foot of the staircase.

The case was then adjourned until Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

CORRECTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS."

SIR,—I see in your impression of the 10th, re the Hongkong Hotel affray, that one of the witnesses (Mr. Razalut) mentions the second officer of the Fatshan as being present at the time. I suppose this must be a printer's or reporter's error, as the second officer of the Fatshan was on board the steamer at the time, and I may add that he never goes into the Hongkong Hotel bar. Requesting you to make the necessary correction,—I am, sir, yours faithfully,

J. C. CHEETHAM,
Second Officer,
S.S. Fatshan.

Hongkong, 11th April, 1894.

THE COREAN POLITICAL MURDER AT SHANGHAI.

SHANGHAI, 3rd April.

Hong-Ejyong-On is now in the custody of the Chinese authorities, having been handed over to the Chehshien an [taken into the native city here. The Corean Government have been in communication with the Chinese officials, and it is believed that Hong will be given into the charge of a Corean official of Prefect's rank, who is at present in Shanghai, and then be taken to Corea. The timely presence of this official in Shanghai is not the least strange incident in the case, but it is stated that he happened to be here in connection with some works it is proposed to start in Corea. When he visited Hong the other day he adopted a very respectful attitude and kowtowed frequently. The remains of the murdered man have also been taken possession of by the native officials and removed into the city, preparatory to their transmission to Corea.

4th April.

The native authorities here have received a telegram from Corea stating that a high official, named Tsao Ping-chih, will be despatched to consult with Nieh-Tai-tai, and to conduct Hong-Tjyong-On back to Corea. It appears that some documents found among st Kim-ok-Kiun's effects mentioned a number of names, and Li Hung-chang, when informed of this, ordered them to be destroyed, on the ground that though the persons indicated might be innocent of any felonious intentions, the presence of their names amongst the ex-conspirator's papers would be likely to arouse the wrath of those now in power in the peninsular kingdom. Hong-Tjyong-On is stated to be receiving every attention during his stay in the city. It may be mentioned that when the Corean Prefect here called on the murderer in the Municipal cells, the former kowtowed to the latter.

5th April.

According to our German contemporary Der Ostasiatische Lloyd, one surmise that Hong-Hjyong-On is a relative of the rebel Hong-Yong-Sik is correct. The assassin wished to regain the confidence of the Court, and he presumed that the best way to do this would be to "remove" Kim-ok-Kiun. In 1889 he therefore went to Tokio, and passing as a Corean refugee made the acquaintance of Kim. He endeavoured to persuade the latter to return with him to Corea and stir up a revolt. Kim, however, declined and Hong then left for Europe, the expenses of his three years' rambling being paid by the Corean Government. Returning to Japan last summer, he renewed his acquaintance with Kim, and induced him to leave for a visit to Shanghai. Hong telegraphed to Seoul the intended departure, and a Corean was sent on to Shanghai to explain matters to the Chinese authorities in the event of the assassination being carried out. The high Corean official who is to escort Hong back to Corea is expected to arrive here very shortly.—N. C. Daily News.

ANOTHER ATTACK ON NORWEGIAN MISSIONARIES.

YANGCHOW, 28th March.

The latter part of last year Messrs. Kristensen and Halvorsen, two Norwegian missionaries, rented a dwelling and chapel in Iling, a town twenty-seven miles from Chinkiang. From the first the people seemed displeased. The villagers living a li or two from Iling also exhibited the same feeling of ill-will. In December there was a slight disturbance and the missionaries applied to the Yangchow official who has control of that district for a proclamation. It was granted, but, in the meantime, the owner of the house was called to Yangchow to appear before the official, Ling tungchi. A paper was drawn up which the landlord was required to sign. If afterwards came out that in signing this paper the landlord agreed to bear the expense of any loss of mission property by the mob at any time, and also that he would not allow a second story to be added to the house for the missionaries. What other conditions were mentioned in the paper is not yet known. Notwithstanding the proclamation granted the missionaries, the people still continued to display their ill-feeling, especially those living in a small village two li from Iling. Matters assumed so serious an aspect that on the 10th of March Mr. Helgeson came to Yangchow to see the official. The afternoon he reached the city he went immediately to the yamen, but Ling taoyeh was out. That evening he sent his card to Mr. Helgeson, who was staying at the British mission, with word that he, Ling, would call to see him the next day. When he called he promised to send soldiers to Iling with Mr. Helgeson the following morning, and tried to persuade the missionaries to give up their work at that place. Mr. Helgeson supposing Ling meant what he said, waited the next morning (Monday) for the soldiers who were to accompany him to Iling. As the promised escort failed to put in an appearance, he sent to the yamen to inquire the cause. Word came back that Ling had gone to Chinkiang and no orders had been given for soldiers to go to Iling. Mr. Helgeson decided to wait until the official returned. In the meantime, Mr. Kristensen was in Iling alone. In a letter received from him, he states that on the morning of the 12th of March, after Mr. Helgeson left him, a mob collected around the place and threw stones, but the lipao succeeded in quieting them. He urged the necessity of sending soldiers as soon as possible. In China when foreigners' lives are at stake, the officials find ways and means innumerable whereby they may be absent at the time. Ling left Yangchow on Sunday afternoon, and although well aware of the state of affairs at Iling, and knowing the necessity of taking prompt action in the matter, he left without making any provision for the safety of the missionaries and did not return until Thursday evening. Did he care whether or not the missionaries perished at the hands of a brutal mob during his absence? On Friday Mr. Helgeson again saw Ling, and he promised to send the soldiers without fail the next day, and as he had a matter to settle at a place near Iling, he himself would stop at their place. The next day Mr. Helgeson waited for the soldiers, and still they did not come, so he decided to go back to Iling alone. At Chienmenmiao he found some soldiers who escorted him home. A letter received from him a few days after states that the official, although very near Iling, did not stop there as he promised. On the 27th of March a report came from Iling stating that the missionaries had been attacked by a large mob who laid waste the mission premises and destroyed all their property. The missionaries were compelled to flee for their lives. The report also stated that they were beaten, as was also their cook, and that they had gone to Chinkiang. In many respects this case has been similar to the Sungpu case. If this is allowed to go unnoticed we may expect many other cases of like nature.

30th March.

The report brought by the Chinese that the missionaries and their servant had been beaten by the Iling mob has proved to be untrue. A letter received from Mr. Helgeson after he reached Chinkiang gives the events just as they occurred. He writes: "The soldiers accompanied me from Chienmenmiao, but they went back the same night. Afterwards, Ling taoyeh himself came. We asked him to manage the people in Kungkiachiang but he answered us we could not prove that the people there had done us any harm. We also told him the people from that village came to Iling and threatened to destroy our house, etc. He replied that we had nothing to do with the people being noisy in the street. If they came in our chapel then we might speak about it. When I was in Yangchow, the mob threw stones on the roof and spoiled the tiles. The rain came and the water ran in and destroyed the dining-room ceiling. We asked him to pay the damage. He answered that it was impossible; that the people could not cast bricks on the roof because the wall was too high. That the roof leaked did not prove anything, even new houses could leak. The mandarin then went out in the yard and climbed the ladder to see if what we had said was true. When we asked him to send soldiers to our protection he answered that he had not sufficient authority, but he could send some yamen runners when he reached Yangchow. He left Iling on Saturday night. Mr. Kristensen went down to Chinkiang on Monday morning. That night, just as I was going to bed, the servant came and told me that it was not quiet outside. We heard the people from the villages approach. They beat the gong to gather more people. I sent the servant out to ask what the matter was, but the people did not seem to know what it meant—either fire, robbers, or perhaps a riot. I went into the back yard. The people in the landlord's house also came and I asked them if they knew what was the matter. They said they did not know but were afraid it meant a riot, and advised me to go over to them. I did so and hid myself in the landlord's bedroom. Afterwards the teacher and the servant's wife and daughter came over to the same house. The servant had gone to the other side of the canal to tell the military officials about the riot, but he was not at home. In a short time, the house and all our things were destroyed. I do not know whether or not the people tried to find me. I was told they were armed. We heard a boat in the night and went down to Chienmenmiao. We have sent a man to Iling to learn all the particulars, who the ringleader was, etc. The case has been handed over to Mr. Carles, the English Consul at Chinkiang. The flimsy excuse made by officials that they cannot protect foreigners away from treaty ports is sheer nonsense, and the sooner they are made to realise that foreigners know this to be so the better it will be.—N. C. Daily News correspondent.

SHAOHSING.

29th March.

I wrote you in October last of a case of attempted bribery on the part of an ex-Taotai named Chow Kuh-shing and told you that he was seized and conveyed to Hangchow, the capital of Chekiang province. He has been under arrest ever since, and now we hear that recent orders have been received from Peking, stating that sentence of death has been passed upon him, and that he must suffer the extreme penalty of the law. All helps to commit suicide have been removed from his cell; and although this Han-lin graduate and ex-Taotai is allowed his daily portion of opium, and his page, or man in waiting, permitted to minister to him, yet the opium is now exactly measured or weighed, and the page's life is to go for the master's if there be treachery or any underhand work discovered. The queue also of this mandarin is—as is the custom in such cases—divested of the strong silk thread with which the Chinese plait their tails, and the hair—which in this case is neither long nor plentiful—is tied up in a knot and firmly secured by strong sealing-wax to the top of the head, in order to prevent any attempt at strangling himself! What a strange figure this ex-Taotai must cut in his condemned cell! All the others implicated—the Provincial Examiner Yin, and who was Vice-President of one of the Metropolitan Boards, has succeeded in completely establishing his innocence in the case; and also the five wealthy and influential families who were charged with paying to Chow twelve thousand dollars for the obtaining of the degree of Ku-jen, or provincial graduate, for one son in each of the above five families have all got off "scot free," so far as incarceration in the provincial prison is concerned. But doubtless they have had to pay an immense sum of money between them in order to save their heads and their families. All this, of course, is kept very quiet, as the crime is counted as one of treason; the degree of Ku-jen being inseparably connected with official rank and influence. To us barbarians from the West, the penalty seems too severe; but then our literary titles carry no political or civil authority with them, whereas in China, a man with the provincial graduate's title is a power for evil if he has ill-disposed, and in general they are the aristocratic pests of the locality in which they reside. Most District Magistrates, if they are not a literary title higher than this, are in fear of the petite noblesse, who, "when they play, is worth the candle," can turn the scale of justice for or against you. The will of these local autocrats is generally the end to all controversy, and those country scoundrels daily abuse their power that, under the present regime or mode of government, the people will not be sorry for the failure of the five sons in their efforts to get this much coveted degree of Ku-jen. Under the present corrupt administration, the fewer provincial graduates there are the better. It is true that in the immediate locality or neighbourhood of the successful candidate for this degree, the people feel proud to have such a scholar among them—but after the first stage of excitement is past, and the usual flagstaffs—the emblems of a Ku-jin—begin to look dirty and show signs of decay, and after a short exhibition of a few of the most charming tomfooleries of the man, and the monstrous pretensions of his new position, most of his neighbours would be anywhere but near him, for the class of gentry bring no moral force into the neighbourhood with them,—none of that healthy power of grest and good purposes, but they are simply dignified with these elements which constitute, for "petty tyrant," not necessarily a clown suddenly risen to power, but a clever, cunning, yet over bearing despot, whose motto is "Private interests and public force." Such still mould live after them, and we don't believe that any good is interred with their bones, and the state in which they leave their neighbourhood and families at death reveals also that they have "left no good behind them." Hence living or dead, they are undesirable companions.—Mercury correspondent.

JOINT-STOCK COMPANIES IN JAPAN.

If we except banks and railway companies, the number of joint stock companies in Japan is as follows:—

Capital. Yen.	Number.	Aggregate Capital. Yen.
Under 50,000	694	8,631,705
Over 50,000	107	8,380,400
Over 100,000	60	6,222,550
Over 150,000	15	2,350,000
Over 200,000	49	11,080,200
Over 300,000	24	7,333,000
Over 400,000	10	4,352,495
Over 500,000	26	14,480,000
Over 1,000,000	21	40,920,000
	1,006	101,752,350

Average Capital 101,155.41

There are altogether 131 National Banks with an aggregate capital of 48,418,100 yen and 28 private Railway Companies with a capital of 73,123,000 yen. Thus the capital of all the joint-stock companies, except private banks, amounts to 223,291,450 yen.—Japan Gazette.

SUCCESSFUL JINRIKISHA DRAWERS.

The idea generally entertained of the jinrikisha-drawer's destiny is that he toils beyond the limits of healthy endurance during a brief number of years, and dies, if not prematurely, at all events after a final interval of penury and debility. But whether that conception be true as a rule or false, it is contrary to some experiences. The Shin-Choyo, for example, tells of a man named Saito Hachijo who, in 1880, became a jinrikisha-drawer, his worldly possessions represented by the clothes he wore and the sum of ten yen in hand. At the end of the year his one yen had become two, and he was moreover able to procure for himself a new suit of garments. But clothes and money were both stolen from him the same night. This catastrophe, however, proved the beginning of good fortune. His employer, hearing of his misfortune, took pity on him, presented him with fifty sen, provided a small house for him to live in, and, above all, found him a thrifty, helpful lass to be his wife. So hard did the two toil, she keeping a baked-potato stall and he pulling a jinrikisha, that after some ten years they found themselves in possession of no less a sum than two thousand yen. Only then did the man exchange his jinrikisha drudgery for the comparatively easy life of a charcoal dealer. He is now living in his own premises, owner not alone of the house he lives in and the land it stands on, but also of other houses and lands.

Another case equally noteworthy is that of Nishikawa Fukumatsu, who lives in the street next to Saito's residence. He, too, began life as a jinrikisha-drawer, and is now the owner of a house and land as well as a dozen carriages which he jobs. This man attributes his success entirely to abstention from gambling, the besetting sin of the jinrikisha coolie. The first carriage he bought with his savings had had to be sold by its former owner whom gambling had plunged into debt. It is not wonderful that the police in Japan are instructed to exercise special vigilance for the purpose of checking the vice of gambling.—Japan Mail.

THE EVACUATION OF THE MEKONG.

IMPORTANT PROCLAMATION.

The Pachabitcha (Siamese Government Gazette) contains a proclamation issued on the order of H.M. the King, by H.R.H. Prince Sommot, acting Regent of the Royal Seals. It is dated 22nd March, and directed to the Laos inhabitants of the left bank of the Mekong, and states that in the olden days, through wars or rebellions, or the Chin Haws making descents on the region, many people from the left bank of the Mekong used to come over to the right bank for the sake of peace, and that a great number who so migrated lived on the right bank even down to this day. According to old customs, it continues, the people coming in this fashion were considered as captives of war. This custom His Majesty desires to be changed, not being pleased with it, and he has therefore formally ordered that no one shall keep any persons from the left bank of the Mekong as captives, as in the old days; they are to be considered as visitors or refugees. Therefore if there should be persons who still keep such people as captives although the latter desire to go back to the left bank (their former residence) as that bank is now under French protection according to the new treaty, they must be allowed to go. If any such persons under French protection are kept in defiance of the Royal will, or cannot return to the Mekong because of any cause or impediments the Siamese Government will, on learning of such cases, undertake to send the people to the French Minister at Bangkok, or, if the cases are found near the Mekong, the authorities there will be ordered to send the people across the river.

From this date should anyone in Siam holding any slaves or detaining persons from the said left bank be it known to them that these people are under French protection, and they are to immediately inform the authorities, who have received orders to release the slaves at once, and report the case to the Government.

From the date of the promulgation two months will be given to allow time to such slave-holders to send them to the authorities or to the Government, after which time should any of these people be found in the possession of any person or persons, the latter shall be judged by the Court, and condemned in preciation of scholarly, classic literature, but in these days of the new journalism, with its leaded head-lines, its spiteful society gossip, its advertising interviews, and its ever-increasing vulgarity, it is good to think that clean, healthy books such as these hold their own.

As with their reading, so with their amusements. We may laugh at the insanity of the masher who sucks his stick night after night in the stalls of the Frivolity Theatre, but is the virile strength of our youth menaced by the abolition of the Cider Cellars and the Coal Hole? Does the more mature manner compare unfavourably with the Captain Costigan of fifty years ago? Scoffers may say that the refinement is but a veneer, and that the wickedness is there all the same. This may be so, but the youngster of the present day is none the less manly because he has ceased to revel in coarseness, and because he prefers a theatre or a music hall to the sordid filth of a "Sam Hall," or the forensic impurity of the "Judge and Jury." The same may be said with regard to sport. Nobody wants to reintroduce bear-baiting, and it is a matter for sincere rejoicing that prize fighting, with its rowdy surroundings, has relegated itself to the level to which it properly belongs; but the demotude of these brutal pastimes has not tended to make our youth one whit the less manly. They can ride hard and yet remain sober; they can play games and excel at athletic exercises for which their grandfathers had neither opportunity, aptitude, nor desire; and they can conduct "subalterns' wars," vide Rudyard Kipling, in a way that begets the respect of other nations if not of their own.

IMPERIAL QUARTO.

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY.
WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.

An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterised Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:—Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.

4 Vols. IMPERIAL QUARTO, Price, $20.

A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies.

THE
CHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY
FOR
CHINA, JAPAN, STRAITS, &c., &c.,
FOR 1894,
With which is incorporated
THE CHINA DIRECTORY.

This is the
THIRTY-SECOND ANNUAL ISSUE, and will be found, as usual, to show an advance on preceding years both in fulness and accuracy of information.

The DIRECTORY covers the whole of the ports and cities of the Far East, from Penang to Vladivostock in which Europeans reside.

Not only is this Directory as full and complete in each case as it can be made, but each Colony, Port, or Settlement is prefaced by a DESCRIPTION, carefully revised each year, some of which will serve as accurate GUIDES for the Tourist, giving every detail in connection with the places, their History, Topography, &c., &c.

The Information afforded in these Descriptions alone would suffice to fill an ordinary volume, consisting of over EIGHTY highly Interesting articles, packed with facts concisely set out, and containing statistics of the TRADE of each Country and Port.

The work contains Directories and Descriptions of
